The doors of the world's biggest pop culture convention have just opened, and every fan club in town has exactly five hours to get closer to the stars than anybody else. Send your crew across the floor, join the right queue at the right moment, sweet-talk the volunteers, and be standing in prime position when the celebrity walks in.

One day. Nine halls. Six celebrities. And an awful lot of coffee.

WELCOME TO THE CONVENTION

You are a fan club. Over five hours you will march your Crew around the convention floor, queue at the halls where the celebrities are heading, and come away with the photographs everybody else wishes they had taken.

The fan club with the most VP at the end of the fifth hour wins.

A CONVENTION IN ONE PARAGRAPH

The whole schedule is laid out before anybody moves. Each Hour you are paid coffee, you spend it walking Crew towards the hall where this Hour's celebrity will finish, and then the celebrity arrives and pays out. Everything else you can do - upgrading badges, planting volunteers, buying Swag - exists to put one of your Crew nearer the front of the right queue than anybody else's.

Three things you collect

Coffee

Coffee is your energy, and every action on the floor costs some. You receive a fresh round of coffee at the start of every hour and you track it on your coffee dial. Coffee is capped at 12 - anything above that is lost, so spend it.

Selfies

Selfies come in three colours - green (thumbs up), red (heart) and orange (star). Every celebrity is one of those three colours and hands out matching selfies to the fans standing closest. Selfies buy Swag, and they convert into coffee and points.

Victory Points

Points are scored on the track running around the edge of the board. They come from celebrities, from Achievement cards, from taking a rest, and from selfies you never got round to spending.

A WORD FROM THE DESIGNER

Every convention runs on the same brutal logic: the people at the front of the queue get everything, and the people at the back get a photograph of the back of somebody's head. Superfans is a game about being early.

Anatomy of a Hall

- 1 Prime Position. The gold star marks the front of the queue. Whoever stands here gets photographed.
- 2 The queue. Crew line up left to right. Position in the queue is decided by badge, then by who arrived first.
- 3 Photographer space. One Photographer volunteer may be placed here.
- 4 Security space. One Security volunteer may be placed here.
- 5 Capacity marks. The 3+ and 4+ positions only exist in games with that many players.

THE CONVENTION FLOOR

The board is a 3 × 3 grid of nine Halls. The bottom-middle hall is the Entrance, where all new Crew arrive.

Halls that touch orthogonally are joined by a velvet rope connection. Crew move along these connections; there are no diagonal moves, and the twelve ropes are where Usher volunteers stand.

NO HALL BELONGS TO ANYBODY

Any player's Crew may walk into any hall, and when a celebrity scores there the payout goes to every fan club standing in the queue. You are never fighting for a hall - only for a place near the front of it.

COMPONENTS

Shared

- 1 game board
- 18 Celebrity cards (6 rank A, 6 rank B, 6 rank C)
- 3 Celebrity figures - one green, one red, one orange
- 3 Destination markers, matching the figures
- 40 Achievement cards
- 36 Swag cards - 12 green, 12 red, 12 orange
- 9 Club cards
- 1 Pass card
- 1 First Player marker
- Selfie tokens in three colours
- 5 double-sided player aids

Each player takes

- 8 Crew meeples in your colour
- 3 VIP hats
- 1 AAA box
- 6 Volunteer T-shirts
- 1 Coffee dial
- 1 Pass marker and 1 Score marker

BADGES, AND WHAT THEY ARE CALLED

A Crew meeple always wears one of three badges. The badge is shown by what the meeple is wearing, and it decides where in a queue that Crew stands.

 Noob - a bare meeple. Everybody starts here.

 VIP (Very Important Person) - a meeple wearing a hat.

 AAA (Access All Areas) - a meeple wearing a hat and standing on a box.

VOLUNTEERS COME IN THREE FLAVOURS

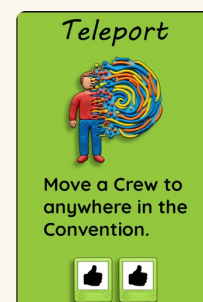

All six of your Volunteer T-shirts are identical. What a volunteer does is decided entirely by where you put it: on a velvet rope it is an Usher, on a clipboard space it is Security, on a polaroid space it is a Photographer. See Volunteers.

The player aid

Every player gets a double-sided aid. One side lists the actions and their costs; the other names the badges and the three volunteer roles. Between them they cover almost everything in this book.

Front - the nine things you may do on your turn. Back - badges and volunteers.

BEFORE YOUR FIRST GAME

Sort the Celebrity cards into A, B and C decks by the letter in the top-right corner, and keep them separated in the box. You will do it at the start of every game, so it is worth doing once properly.

SETTING UP

The numbers on the board match the numbered steps opposite. Step 2 happens beside the board, not on it.

YOUR FAN CLUB

Take the 8 Crew, 3 VIP hats, 1 AAA box and 6 Volunteers in your colour. Set your coffee dial to 12. Take 3 starting Selfies - one green, one red, one orange. Finally, draw 1 Club card at random and place it face up in front of you: it is your fan club, and it gives you a power nobody else has.

SIX CELEBRITIES, FIVE HOURS

You draw six Celebrity cards but only three figures ever stand on the board at once. The rest of the schedule is still face up beside the board from the very first turn - you always know exactly what is coming.

HISTORICAL NOTE

Doors open at nine. The queue outside starts forming at five, and by half past eight it contains at least one person in full armour who has not sat down since Thursday. Everything that follows is decided in those four hours.

- The board. Put it in the middle of the table. Each player puts their score marker on 0 on the track that runs around the edge.
- The schedule. Sort the 18 Celebrity cards into three decks by the letter in the top-right corner - A, B and C. Shuffle each deck and draw 2 cards from each. Lay them out face up beside the board in this order, and return the rest to the box unseen:

Hour 1	one A
Hour 2	one A
Hour 3	one B
Hour 4	one B
Hour 5	both C cards
- Celebrities on the floor. For the celebrities of Hours 1, 2 and 3 only, place the matching coloured figure on the hall marked with the blue star on that card's route map.
- Destinations. For those same three celebrities, place a matching destination marker on the hall marked with the green tick - the last hall of that celebrity's route.
- The Swag market. Shuffle the Swag cards, deal 5 face up into the row of slots along the bottom of the board, and put the deck beside them.
- Achievements. Shuffle the Achievement cards and put the deck on the trophy space. Deal 2 to each player, kept secret.
- The Selfie Exchange. Nothing to do - this panel is a permanent reminder of the three exchange rates you may use at any time.
- Opening the doors. Give the First Player marker to a random player. Then, in reverse turn order (the last player goes first), each player places 2 N00b Crew into the Entrance queue.

EXAMPLE - THE OPENING QUEUE

In a four-player game, Yellow has the First Player marker and the order is Yellow, Green, Red, Blue.

Blue places first and takes positions 1 and 2 of the Entrance queue, then Red takes 3 and 4, Green 5 and 6, and Yellow 7 and 8. The Entrance is now full.

Yellow gets the first action of the game; Blue gets the front of the first queue.

THE SHAPE OF AN HOUR

The convention lasts five Hours. Each Hour runs through the same three phases, in order.

- | | |
|----------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1 Coffee Break | everybody is paid |
| 2 On the Floor | players take turns |
| 3 The Celebrity Walk | a celebrity arrives and scores |

1 • Coffee Break

Every player - all at once - gains coffee equal to the number printed on the ☕ cup in the top-left corner of this Hour's Celebrity card.

In Hour 5, where two celebrities are scheduled, add both numbers together.

THE CAP BITES HARD

Your coffee dial only goes up to 12. Coffee gained beyond 12 is simply lost - it does not carry, and it is never worth points. A player who ends an Hour on 11 coffee in front of an 8-coffee celebrity throws 7 coffee straight in the bin.

2 • On the Floor

Beginning with the first player and continuing clockwise, each player takes one action on their turn, or passes.

Once you have passed you take no further actions this Hour, but you keep taking turns in order to collect your rewards - see Passing.

The phase ends when every player has passed.

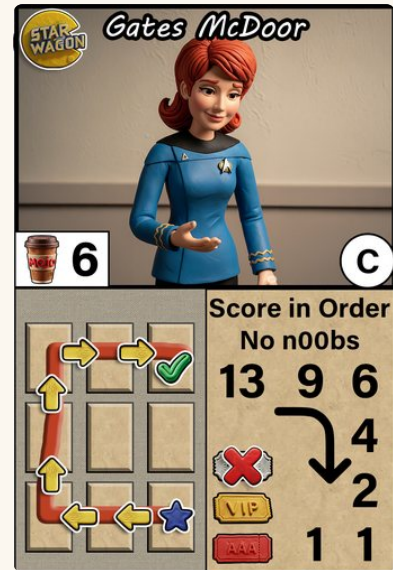

3 • The Celebrity Walk

This Hour's celebrity walks their route, handing out selfies at every hall, and scores when they arrive - see The Celebrity Walk.

Then the First Player marker passes clockwise to the next player, and the next Hour begins.

TURN ORDER MATTERS LESS THAN YOU THINK

The First Player marker moves round every Hour, so nobody starts first twice in a row. What really decides an Hour is who is willing to leave the floor early - see Passing.

READING THE SCHEDULE

Everything about an Hour is public from the moment the game begins. You can see which celebrity is coming, how much coffee they pay, exactly which halls they will walk through, where they will finish, and how they will score when they get there.

There are no surprises in Superfans - only players who read the schedule and players who did not.

EXAMPLE - THE RHYTHM OF AN HOUR

Hour 3's celebrity is a rank B with a 5 on their cup, finishing in the Vendor Hall.

- Coffee Break: every player gains 5 coffee.
- On the Floor: players spend that coffee shuffling Crew towards the Vendor Hall, planting volunteers and buying Swag, until everybody has passed.
- The Celebrity Walk: the figure moves hall by hall to the Vendor Hall, handing a selfie to whoever stands in prime position of each hall on the way, and then pays out points to the Vendor Hall queue.

HISTORICAL NOTE

Conventions do not run on hours. They run on the gap between the hour printed in the programme and the hour the celebrity actually walks out, which is the only part of the schedule nobody publishes.

ON THE FLOOR

On your turn you take exactly one of the following actions, then play passes clockwise. You may repeat the same action on later turns as often as you can afford it.

ACTION	COST	WHAT IT DOES
Move 2	1 coffee	Move one Crew up to 2 halls
Move 1 Crew ×3	3 coffee	Move up to three different Crew 1 hall each
New N00b Crew	4 coffee	Bring a fresh Crew into the Entrance
Upgrade Crew	5 coffee	Raise one Crew's badge by one step
Volunteer	2 coffee	Place one Volunteer T-shirt
Take a Selfie	1 coffee	Photograph a celebrity in the same hall
Swag	free	Spend selfies on a face-up Swag card
Club Power	varies	Use your Club card, once per Hour
Pass	free	Leave the floor for the rest of the Hour

YOU CANNOT GO INTO DEBT

You must be able to pay an action's full cost before you take it. If you cannot afford anything you would like to do, your only remaining option is to Pass.

Moving your Crew

Both movement actions follow the same rules.

- Crew move between orthogonally adjacent halls, along the velvet rope connection joining them. There are no diagonal moves.
- A Crew may not enter a hall whose queue is already full - see Queues and Prime Position.
- A Crew arriving in a hall joins the back of its own badge class.
- A Crew that leaves a hall gives up its place in that queue for good.

FULL HALLS BLOCK MOVEMENT

A full queue is a wall. You cannot move through a full hall on your way to somewhere else, and you cannot upgrade your way into one. Plan around the crowds, or arrive before they do.

Move 2 - 1 coffee

Move one of your Crew up to two halls. It may stop after one hall.

Move 1 Crew ×3 - 3 coffee

Move up to three different Crew one hall each. You choose the order, and you may move fewer than three if you wish. The same Crew may not be moved twice with this action.

THE USHER BONUS

Whenever you move one of your Crew across a velvet rope carrying your own Usher volunteer, gain 1 coffee immediately - even in the middle of a move.

Only the owner of the Usher gains anything. Other players cross it for free.

EXAMPLE - A CHEAP SPRINT

Blue has two of her own Ushers standing on consecutive velvet ropes. She spends 1 coffee for a Move 2 and walks a single Crew across both of them.

Pay 1 → cross the first Usher, gain 1 → cross the second Usher, gain 1.

Net result: Blue moved two halls and finished 1 coffee richer than she started.

EXAMPLE - ONE ACTION, THREE HALLS

Red has Crew scattered in the Entrance, Photo Ops and Artist Alley, and this Hour's celebrity finishes in the Vendor Hall.

She pays 3 coffee for Move 1 Crew ×3 and walks all three Crew one hall each - two of them straight into the Vendor Hall and one into the Main Stage on the celebrity's route.

Three Crew repositioned for the price of one turn. Two separate Move 2 actions would have cost less coffee but taken two of her turns.

DESIGNER'S NOTE

Two movement actions, priced very differently, is the whole economy of this game. Move 2 is cheap and slow. Move 1 Crew ×3 is expensive and buys you the one thing money usually cannot buy at a convention: time.

CREW AND BADGES

New N00b Crew - 4 coffee

Take one Crew from your supply and place it in the Entrance, joining the back of the N00b class in that queue. New Crew always arrive as N00bs.

If the Entrance queue is already full, place the Crew instead in any hall orthogonally adjacent to the Entrance that has room. If every one of those is full too, place it in any hall on the board that has room.

Upgrade Crew - 5 coffee

Raise the badge of one Crew already on the board by exactly one step.

- N00b → VIP - put one of your VIP hats on the meeple.
- VIP → AAA - stand the meeple on your AAA box, keeping the hat on.

You may not skip a step: every AAA Crew must be upgraded twice. You have 3 hats and 1 box, so at most three of your Crew can ever be VIP or better, and only one of those can be AAA.

The moment a Crew is upgraded it moves forward to its new place in the queue, at the back of its new badge class.

EXAMPLE - BUYING YOUR WAY FORWARD

The Vendor Hall queue reads: 1 red N00b, 2 yellow N00b, 3 blue N00b, 4 blue N00b.

Blue pays 5 coffee and upgrades the Crew in position 3 to VIP. There are no AAA or VIP Crew in the hall, so it goes straight to the front. The queue is now:

1 blue VIP, 2 red N00b, 3 yellow N00b, 4 blue N00b.

Blue is in prime position, and red has been shunted back a place without doing anything wrong.

HATS ARE SCARCE, AND THEY NEVER COME BACK

An upgraded Crew keeps its badge for the rest of the game. There is no way to downgrade, no way to recover a hat, and no way to move a badge to a Crew standing somewhere more useful. Upgrade where you intend to stay.

Take a Selfie - 1 coffee

If you have at least one Crew standing in the same hall as a Celebrity figure, gain 1 Selfie matching that celebrity's colour.

It does not matter where in the queue your Crew is standing, and it does not matter whether the celebrity is scheduled to score this Hour. If you have more than one Crew there, you still gain only one selfie.

CELEBRITIES ARE ON THE BOARD EARLY

The celebrities for the next three Hours all stand on the board at once, waiting at their starting halls. A Crew loitering next to a celebrity two Hours before their walk can be milked for a selfie every single turn.

Club Power - cost varies

Your Club card gives you a power that nobody else at the table has. Most are used as your action for the turn and cost coffee; the cost is printed on the card.

- A power marked once per hour may be used on one of your turns each Hour.
- A power marked passive or free action is not your action for the turn, and follows the wording on the card.

Player One Posse - place a Volunteer anywhere, and move your existing Volunteers while you do it.

Selfie Stick Squad - a passive power, usable as often as you can pay for it.

WHERE THE COFFEE GOES

A full Hour's income rarely buys more than four or five actions. A single Upgrade costs more than two Move 2s and a Volunteer put together, so a badge you never use is the most expensive mistake in the game.

VOLUNTEERS

The Volunteer action costs 2 coffee and places one T-shirt from your supply onto an empty volunteer space. You have six, and once a volunteer is down it stays there for the rest of the convention.

Usher

Where: on a velvet rope, between two orthogonally adjacent halls.

Effect: whenever you move one of your Crew across this connection, gain 1 coffee immediately. There is no limit to how often this triggers.

Security

Where: on a hall's clipboard space.

Effect: all of your Crew in that hall move to the front of their own badge class - and stay there as more Crew arrive. Security never lets you overtake a higher badge class.

Photographer

Where: on a hall's polaroid space.

Effect: whenever a Celebrity enters that hall during a Celebrity Walk, you gain 1 Selfie in that celebrity's colour. You do not need any Crew in the hall.

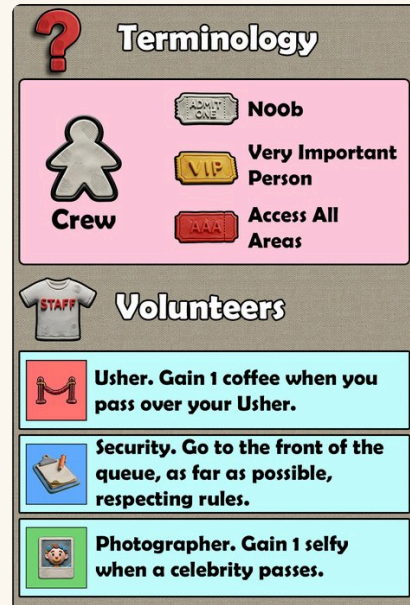

ONE SPACE, ONE VOLUNTEER, FOR EVER

- Each volunteer space holds one volunteer, of any player. First come, first served.
- Volunteers are never removed and never moved, unless a Swag card or Club card explicitly says so.
- A volunteer only ever works for the player who placed it.

EXAMPLE - A PHOTOGRAPHER EARNS ITS KEEP

Blue puts a Photographer on the Main Stage in Hour 1. Three of the six celebrities walk through the Main Stage on their way somewhere else.

Blue collects 3 selfies for 2 coffee, without moving a single Crew - and the Main Stage never has to be queued for.

The reverse of the player aid: badge names and the three volunteer roles.

WORKED EXAMPLE - SECURITY REBUILDS A QUEUE

The Photo Ops queue, in arrival order, is:

1 red AAA 2 red VIP 3 red VIP 4 blue VIP 5 blue N00b 6 blue N00b 7 red N00b

Blue spends 2 coffee and drops a Security volunteer on the hall. Every blue Crew now jumps to the front of its own class, and the queue becomes:

1 red AAA 2 blue VIP 3 red VIP 4 red VIP 5 blue N00b 6 blue N00b 7 red N00b

Blue's VIP has overtaken two red VIPs. It has not overtaken the red AAA, and it never will.

SIX SHIRTS, ONE CONVENTION

Volunteers are the only thing in Superfans you cannot take back. Six placements across five Hours is not many, and the good spaces - the ropes on the routes, the clipboards in the scoring halls - go early.

QUEUES AND PRIME POSITION

Every hall holds a single queue, running from the gold star outwards. Where a Crew stands in that queue is not a choice - it is worked out from three things, in this order.

- 1 Badge class first. All AAA Crew stand ahead of all VIP Crew, who stand ahead of all N00b Crew.
- 2 Security next. Within a class, any player with a Security volunteer in that hall has all of their Crew of that class at the front of it.
- 3 Arrival last. Otherwise, whoever got there first stands further forward.

The Crew standing in position 1 - on the gold star - is in Prime Position. Prime position is worth a selfie every time a celebrity walks into that hall, and it is usually worth the most points when one scores there.

How full a hall can get

The number of queue positions printed in each hall depends on how many people are playing. The extra positions are marked 3+ and 4+ on the board.

PLAYERS	QUEUE POSITIONS PER HALL
2	5
3	7
4 or 5	8

BEING PUSHED BACK IS NORMAL

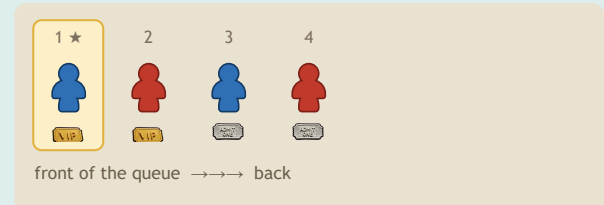

Nothing protects a place in a queue. An upgrade, a new arrival with a better badge or a Security volunteer will all shove your Crew backwards without warning. The only permanent way to hold prime position is to have the best badge in the hall and to have got there first.

TIES NEVER HAPPEN

Because arrival order breaks every tie, a queue always has exactly one order. If a hall's queue is ever unclear, rebuild it from the three rules above - badge, then Security, then arrival.

WORKED EXAMPLE - READING A QUEUE

Four Crew stand in the Autograph Hall. Blue has a Security volunteer here; red does not. They arrived in this order: red N00b, blue N00b, red VIP, blue VIP.

- Both VIPs come before both N00bs, whoever arrived first.
- Blue's VIP arrived last, but Blue's Security volunteer puts it at the front of the VIP class - so Blue takes prime position.
- Blue's N00b likewise leads the N00b class, ahead of the red N00b that arrived before it.

WORKED EXAMPLE - LOCKING A HALL OUT

It is a three-player game, so every hall holds 7 Crew. Late in Hour 4 the Cosplay Arena already holds 4 red and 3 yellow Crew.

Blue cannot move a Crew in, cannot bring a new N00b in, and cannot upgrade her way in either - the hall is full, and it stays full unless somebody walks out.

Whatever the Hour 5 celebrity pays in the Cosplay Arena, Blue will not see a penny of it.

HISTORICAL NOTE

The velvet rope was invented so that the people outside it could see exactly how much better life was on the other side. Conventions have never found a reason to improve on it.

SELFIES AND SWAG

Selfies come in three colours, and each celebrity only ever hands out their own.

SELFIE	ICON	GIVEN BY
Green	thumbs up	green celebrities
Red	heart	red celebrities
Orange	star	orange celebrities

There is no limit to how many selfies you may hold, and they are kept in the open where everyone can see them.

The Selfie Exchange

The three exchange rates printed on the board may be used at any time, on your turn or on somebody else's. They are free, and they are never your action for the turn.

2 selfies, any colours → 1 coffee

2 selfies, any colours → 1 selfie of another colour

4 selfies, any colours → 2 VP

YES, EVEN AT THE VERY END

You may use the Exchange during final scoring. Four leftover selfies are always worth 2 VP - never leave them on the table.

The Exchange, printed on the board beside the Swag market.

COLOUR IS A CURRENCY OF ITS OWN

Swag cards demand one specific colour, so a fistful of the wrong selfies is worth exactly half of what it looks like. Two of anything become one of what you need - plan a colour, not a pile.

Swag - free action

Five Swag cards lie face up beneath the board. Taking one is your action for the turn, but it costs no coffee - only selfies.

- 1 Pay. Hand back the selfies shown at the bottom of the card. Every Swag card costs between one and three selfies, all of the same colour.
- 2 Resolve. Carry out the effect immediately and in full.
- 3 Replace. Discard the card and deal a new one into the empty slot at once, so there are always five on offer.

If the Swag deck ever runs out, shuffle the discards to make a new one.

FIRST COME, FIRST SERVED

Only one player can ever take a given Swag card. The moment somebody buys it, it is gone - and the card that replaces it is dealt face up for everybody to see and want.

Collector

Gain 3 Selfies from a Celebrity, regardless of their location.

Orange cards lean towards selfies, points and celebrities.

All Together

Pick a Hall. Gain 1 Coffee for each of your Crew in the Hall.

Red cards lean towards coffee, volunteers and upgrades.

EXAMPLE - TURNING COLOUR INTO TEMPO

Blue holds and wants Coffee Break, which costs one red selfie.

She spends her red selfie, gains 3 coffee, and still has three green ones - which she could exchange two-for-one into a red on a later turn for nothing.

DESIGNER'S NOTE

Swag is the only part of the convention that behaves like a shop, and like every convention shop it is full of things you did not come for and cannot stop looking at.

PASSING

Passing is not giving up. It is how you bank an Achievement, take a quiet three points, and let everybody else spend their coffee first.

The first time you pass this Hour

- 1 Take slot 1. Put your pass marker on the first slot of the Pass card.
- 2 Beat the rush. If you are the first player to pass this Hour, gain 2 coffee.
- 3 Cash in an Achievement. Choose one of the two Achievement cards in your hand and do one of the following:
 - Score it. Work out its value and take the points at once, then discard it.
 - Discard it for 2 coffee.
- 4 Draw a replacement. Draw a new Achievement card, so you are holding two again. In Hour 5 you do not draw - you finish the game holding one.

Every turn after that

You keep taking turns, but you no longer take actions. Instead, on each of your turns, advance your pass marker one slot down the card and take that slot's reward, choosing either coffee or points.

SLOT	REWARD
2	1 coffee or 1 VP
3	2 coffee or 2 VP
4	3 coffee or 3 VP

Once your marker is on slot 4 it stays there, and you take the slot 4 reward again on every remaining turn of the Hour.

When every player has passed, the Action phase ends. Return all pass markers to their owners ready for the next Hour.

PASSING COSTS YOU THE CELEBRITY WALK

The queues are locked the moment the last player passes. Everything you meant to do about this Hour's celebrity - the move into prime position, the last upgrade, the Security volunteer - has to happen before you sit down.

The Pass card. The first row is what you take when you pass; the three rows below are what you take on each following turn, with the loop symbol showing that the bottom row repeats.

WORKED EXAMPLE - THE VALUE OF LEAVING EARLY

Blue passes first, while three other players are still on the floor.

- Passing: +2 coffee for being first, and she scores her Spread Out Achievement for 8 VP. She draws a replacement.
- Her next turn - slot 2: she takes 1 VP.
- Next turn - slot 3: 2 VP.
- Next turn - slot 4: she takes 3 coffee instead, banking it for Hour 4.
- Next turn - slot 4 again: 3 VP.

Total for the Hour: 14 VP and 5 coffee, without taking a single action.

THE PASS RACE

Only one player gets the 2 coffee for passing first, and the earlier you sit down the more slots you work through before the Hour ends. Passing early is worth a great deal - which is exactly why the queue you leave behind has to be good enough to survive without you.

HISTORICAL NOTE

The bench outside Hall C is the most contested piece of real estate at any convention. It is also the only place where a fan has ever admitted, out loud, that they have had enough.

THE CELEBRITY WALK

Once everyone has passed, this Hour's celebrity walks. Take the Celebrity card for this Hour and follow the route printed on it, one hall at a time, from where the figure stands to the destination marker.

1 • Entering a hall

Each time the celebrity enters a hall - including the destination - two things happen, in this order:

- 1 Prime position. The Crew standing on the gold star, whoever it belongs to, gains 1 Selfie in the celebrity's colour. An empty hall gives nothing.
- 2 Photographer. The owner of the Photographer volunteer in that hall, if there is one, gains 1 Selfie in the celebrity's colour.

The hall the celebrity was already standing in at the start of the walk does not count as being entered.

2 • Arriving and scoring

When the celebrity reaches the destination marker they hand out selfies as above, and then score by the method printed on their card - see How Celebrities Score.

3 • Clearing up

Return the celebrity figure and their destination marker to the box.

If this was Hour 1, 2 or 3, take the next celebrity on the schedule who is not yet on the board, place their figure on their starting hall and their destination marker on their final hall. There are always three celebrities visible until the convention starts to wind down.

HOOR 5 - BOTH AT ONCE

In the final Hour, both C-rank celebrities walk. Advance them one hall at a time together: move the first, resolve its hall, then move the second and resolve its hall, and repeat until both have arrived. Then score them one after the other.

TWO WAYS TO BE PAID

A celebrity pays selfies at every hall on the way and points only at the end. A hall in the middle of a popular route is a steady income; the destination is the jackpot.

WORKED EXAMPLE - ONE WALK, THREE PAYOUTS

The red celebrity starts in Artist Alley and walks to the Vendor Hall. Blue has a Crew in prime position in Artist Alley, a Photographer in the Main Stage, and nothing at all in the Vendor Hall.

- Hall 1 is where the figure already stood, so nothing happens here - the celebrity does not enter it.
- Hall 2 - the celebrity enters. Whoever is in prime position gains a red selfie, and Blue's Photographer earns a second red selfie.
- Hall 3 - the celebrity enters and this is the destination. Prime position takes a red selfie, then the hall scores.

Blue takes 1 red selfie from her Photographer, and nothing else - her prime position in Artist Alley was one hall too early.

HOW CELEBRITIES SCORE

When a celebrity arrives at their destination, the queue in that hall is paid out. Every celebrity does it differently, and the method is printed on their card - read it before you decide where to stand.

PRINTED ON THE CARD	HOW IT PAYS
Everyone	Every Crew in the hall scores the number shown, whoever it belongs to.
Everyone, by badge	Every Crew scores, but the amount depends on its badge - for example N00b 4, VIP 6, AAA 8.
Everyone, no n00bs	Every VIP and AAA Crew scores the number shown. N00b Crew score nothing.
Score in Order	The card lists a run of values. Award them down the queue from prime position - first value to position 1, second to position 2, and so on. Crew beyond the end of the list score nothing.
Score in Order, no n00bs	The same, but N00b Crew are skipped entirely - they take no value from the list and do not use one up.
Everyone, count total	Count every Crew in the hall, then read the band on the card. A quiet hall pays far better than a crowded one.

THE WHOLE HALL SCORES, NOT JUST YOU

Celebrity scoring pays out to every player with Crew in the hall. Filling a hall with your own Crew is often worth less than being the only fan club that bothered to show up somewhere quieter.

WORKED EXAMPLE - EVERYONE, BY BADGE

The card reads N00b 4 · VIP 6 · AAA 8, and the celebrity finishes in the Panel Rooms, where Blue has one AAA and two N00b Crew and Yellow has one VIP.

Blue scores $8 + 4 + 4 = 16$ VP. Yellow scores 6 VP. Queue position makes no difference at all here - only badges do.

WORKED EXAMPLE - SCORE IN ORDER, NO N00BS

The celebrity's card reads Score in Order, no n00bs: 14, 10, 7, 5, 3, 2. They arrive at the Cosplay Arena, where the queue stands:

POS	CREW	SCORES
1	red AAA	14 VP
2	blue VIP	10 VP
3	blue VIP	7 VP
4	red N00b	-
5	blue N00b	-
6	yellow N00b	-

Blue scores $10 + 7 = 17$ VP. Red scores 14 VP. Yellow scores nothing at all - and the 5, 3 and 2 on the card are never awarded, because no more VIP or AAA Crew turned up.

WORKED EXAMPLE - EVERYONE, COUNT TOTAL

The card reads 1-2 Crew: 12 · 3-4 Crew: 5 · 5+ Crew: 3, and the celebrity finishes in the Food Trucks.

Only two Crew are there - one blue, one yellow. Both fall in the 1-2 band, so each scores 12 VP.

Had one more fan club sent a single Crew, all three would have dropped to 5 VP apiece.

Everyone, no n00bs - badges matter, position does not.

Score in Order - position is everything.

ACHIEVEMENTS AND CLUBS

Achievement cards are your private targets. You always hold two, and nobody else may see them.

Scoring an Achievement

- 1 Count. Work out how many times the card's condition is true, right now, on the board.
- 2 Multiply. Multiply that count by the number in the laurel wreath at the bottom of the card.
- 3 Score. Take that many points immediately, then discard the card.

An Achievement is scored at exactly two moments:

- When you pass, as part of passing - see Passing.
- At the end of the game, when your last remaining card scores at triple value.

THE LAST CARD IS WORTH THREE OF THE OTHERS

You do not draw a replacement when you pass in Hour 5, so you go into final scoring holding exactly one card - and that card scores $\times 3$. Which card you decide not to cash in during Hours 1 to 4 is one of the biggest decisions in the game.

WORKED EXAMPLE - SCORING "CHUMS"

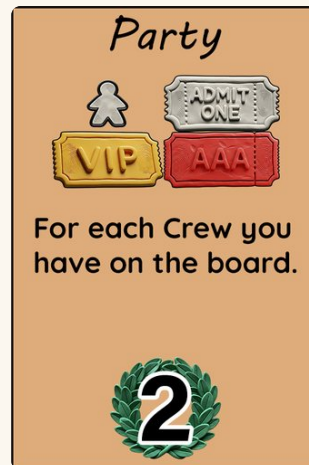

Chums: "For each hall where you have 2 or more Crew" - 4 VP each.

Blue has 3 Crew in the Vendor Hall, 2 in Photo Ops, 2 in the Entrance and 1 in Artist Alley. Three halls qualify; the single Crew in Artist Alley does not.

$3 \times 4 = \mathbf{12 VP}$, or $3 \times 4 \times 3 = \mathbf{36 VP}$ if she has held it back to the end of the game.

READING THE SMALL PRINT

- "Pick a row / column / diagonal" - you choose which one when you score the card, not before.
- "For each pair" - count complete pairs only; an odd one over is worth nothing.
- "Adjacent" always means orthogonally adjacent.
- A few cards have a stated maximum. Respect it.

Some count Crew.

Some count volunteers.

Club Cards

Your Club card sits face up in front of you all game. It names your fan club and gives you a single power that nobody else has, described in full on the card.

Unless the card says otherwise, using the power is your action for the turn, it costs the coffee shown, and it may be used once per Hour.

WHERE A CLUB CARD CONTRADICTS THIS BOOK

The card wins. Club cards are written to break one rule each - that is the whole point of them.

Your Club card and your coffee dial live in front of you all game, in plain sight.

DESIGNER'S NOTE

The nine fan clubs are deliberately uneven. The Silver Screen Society can buy its way to the front of a queue in a single turn; the Meeple Militia has to roll dice on the table and hope. They are all winnable, and none of them is polite.

THE END OF THE CONVENTION

The game ends the moment both Hour 5 celebrities have scored. Then, all together, work through final scoring.

- 1 Last Achievement. Reveal the single Achievement card still in your hand and score it at triple value.
- 2 Leftover selfies. Use the Selfie Exchange as often as you like. Every 4 selfies of any colours is worth 2 VP.
- 3 Leftover coffee. Scores nothing whatsoever.

The fan club with the most points wins the convention.

TIE-BREAKER

If two or more players are level, the tied player who is closest to the First Player marker in clockwise order at the end of Hour 5 wins - counting the first player themselves as closest.

WHERE THE POINTS CAME FROM

- Celebrities - six payouts across five Hours, all of them public knowledge from the first minute of the game.
- Achievements - one per Hour if you pass early, plus a tripled one at the end.
- The Pass card - small, safe, and it adds up.
- Selfies - the consolation prize that quietly wins games.

HISTORICAL NOTE

No fan has ever left a convention saying they got everything they came for. The winner is simply the one who worked out, earliest, which queue was worth standing in - and had the coffee to get there.

See you next year.

WORKED EXAMPLE - BLUE'S FINAL SCORE

Blue reaches the end of Hour 5 on 71 VP on the score track. She is still holding the Media Achievement, worth 5 VP for each of her VIP or AAA Crew on the board, and she has six selfies left over:

SOURCE	VP
Score track at the end of Hour 5	71
Media : 2 VIP + 1 AAA on the board = 3 Crew. $3 \times 5 = 15$, tripled	45
Six leftover selfies: one set of 4 exchanged for 2 VP. The last two are worth nothing	2
3 coffee left on the dial	0
Final total	118

Red finishes on 118 as well. Blue sits two seats clockwise from the First Player marker and Red sits three, so Blue wins the convention.

FOR YOUR FIRST CONVENTION

- Read the Hour 1 and Hour 2 celebrity cards before you place your opening Crew. Where they finish matters far more than where they start.
- Spend Hour 1 spreading out. A Crew in a hall nobody else wants is worth more than a fourth Crew in a hall everybody does.
- Plant one Usher early. It pays for itself in three moves and keeps paying all game.
- Do not save your last Achievement by accident - decide in Hour 3 which card you are keeping for the tripled score, and play the game that makes it true.

QUICK REFERENCE

The Hour

- 1 Coffee Break all gain the celebrity's coffee value (cap 12)
- 2 On the Floor one action or pass, clockwise, until all have passed
- 3 Celebrity Walk celebrity walks, hands out selfies, scores

Actions

ACTION	COST	NOTES
Move 2	1	one Crew, up to 2 halls
Move 1 Crew x3	3	three different Crew, 1 hall each
New N00b Crew	4	into the Entrance
Upgrade Crew	5	N00b→VIP or VIP→AAA, no skipping
Volunteer	2	Usher, Security or Photographer
Take a Selfie	1	Crew in a hall with a celebrity
Swag	0	pay selfies, resolve, replace
Club Power	varies	once per Hour
Pass	0	see below

Queue order

AAA → VIP → N00b; within a class, Security first, then order of arrival. Position 1 is Prime Position.

PLAYERS	2	3	4-5
Queue positions	5	7	8

Volunteers - 2 coffee, 6 each, permanent

- Usher on a velvet rope. You gain 1 coffee each time you move a Crew across it.
- Security on a hall. Your Crew there lead their own badge class.
- Photographer on a hall. Gain 1 matching selfie whenever a celebrity enters.

Selfie Exchange - free, at any time

- 2 selfies → 1 coffee
- 2 selfies → 1 selfie of a different colour
- 4 selfies → 2 VP

Passing

- Slot 1 +2 coffee if first to pass. Then score or discard (+2 coffee) one Achievement, and draw a replacement - except in Hour 5.
- Slot 2 1 coffee or 1 VP
- Slot 3 2 coffee or 2 VP
- Slot 4 3 coffee or 3 VP, repeating every turn

The Celebrity Walk

Move one hall at a time to the destination marker. On entering each hall: prime position gains 1 matching selfie, then the Photographer's owner gains 1 matching selfie. At the destination, score the card. Then remove the figure and, in Hours 1-3, place the next celebrity. In Hour 5, both celebrities advance a hall at a time and then score in turn.

Celebrity scoring types

- Everyone all Crew in the hall score the same
- By badge N00b / VIP / AAA each score their own value
- No n00bs only VIP and AAA Crew score
- In order values awarded down the queue from position 1
- Count total value depends on how many Crew are in the hall

Achievements

Hold 2, secret. Score one when you pass, then draw a replacement - except in Hour 5. Count the condition, multiply by the wreath value. Your last card scores x3 at the end of the game.

End of the game

After both Hour 5 celebrities score: last Achievement at x3; leftover selfies through the Exchange; leftover coffee scores 0. Most points wins; ties go to the tied player nearest the First Player marker clockwise.

FOUR THINGS NEW PLAYERS FORGET

- The Selfie Exchange is free and works during final scoring.
- An upgraded Crew moves up the queue immediately.
- Coffee above 12 is lost at the Coffee Break, not saved.
- A celebrity pays out to every player in the hall, not just the winner.
