

2-4
players

45-60
minutes

Firefly Festival

Every tower is a promise your bridges must keep.

2.5
weight

10+
age

About the Game

A route-building game with a third dimension: bridges spread your network outward, pagodas push your skyline upward - and neither can grow without the other.

Festivals reward foresight: read your rivals, anticipate where scoring will erupt, and arrive before the fireworks do.

Born from the classic Japanese bridge puzzle - it's like Ticket to Ride meets Through the Desert.

Features

Strong table presence: pagodas and bridges turn the table into a 3D archipelago.

One action per turn: lightning-fast turns with little downtime.

Friendly rivalry: you compete through position and timing - no attacks, no take-that.

Variable goals and a randomised archipelago reshape the puzzle every game.

Each Turn, Choose One

Build Bridge

Networks of bridges are shared: rivals' bridges extend your reach, and yours extend theirs.

Build Pagoda

Raise 3D towers to develop your islands. Taller pagodas demand more bridges.

Move Workers

Spread across the archipelago; be there when the fireworks go up. Timing is key.

Call a Festival

Score for pieces on the island - then score again for every neighbour your fireworks reach.

Component List

Common: Game board · 100 small cards · 30 large cards · 20 coins · 18 island tiles · 12 score tokens
Per player: 10 meeples · 20 bridge tokens · 12 pagoda pieces · 3 fish tokens · scoring token

All art is prototype placeholder

Short
Video

