One trick: Red is led

The theft: grab or leave it?

Jean may grab the jumbuck drinking at the billabong. It is trump in her hand, and evidence if it is still there when the troopers come.

"Whose is that jumbuck you've got in your tucker bag?"

PROTOTYPE ART

One trick: Charles leads the Red 7 and Loretta follows with the Red 9. Jean has no Red, so her Jumbuck 4 trumps and wins: +1 for the trick, +1 for the sheep she got away with. Alan holds Red but plays a Trooper instead. It can never win, but the first of three is now on the trooper line.

About the Game

A trick-taker where the trumps are never dealt.

They are the squatter's sheep, drinking at the billabong. Win a trick and you may grab one into your hand. Play your sheep before the troopers ride in, or be caught with a jumbuck in your tucker bag. One hand each; the highest total wins.

Features

- Greed is the trap. Every grab adds a card you must shed in time, and the whole table turns on the greediest thief.
- Leading is policing. Lead the suits a grabber still holds, and their sheep stay stuck in the bag.
- Players set the clock. The third Trooper ends the hand at once. Hold it until your hand is clean and theirs isn't.
- No dead hands. Trumps are earned, not dealt, so a bad deal never decides the hand.

Every Hand Plays the Song

VERSE 1
The camp
Lead a camp card and follow suit. Nobody may lead a stolen sheep while they hold anything else.

VERSE 2
The theft
Win a trick and you may grab the drinking jumbuck. Can't follow? Jumbucks are trump.

VERSE 3
The troopers
Play a Trooper at any time, even instead of following. Each one raises the price of a caught sheep.

THE RECKONING
Caught!
When the third Trooper comes, the hand ends. Every jumbuck still in your hand costs 3 points.
